

CALL FOR WORK

exhibition | DEMOCRACY

City Without Walls (cWOW) seeks artists and artwork for a group exhibition dealing with issues and ideas about democracy, and scheduled to open this fall just prior to the Presidential election. The exhibition will take the pulse of the state of democracy in America and around the world.

curator | TBA

cWOW has posted an open call to curators simultaneously to this call for artists.

eligibility | MEMBERS ONLY (unless solicited by curator)

Unless solicited directly by a project curator, artists must be members to be considered for cWOW exhibitions. For this exhibition, you must join cWOW by May 30, 2008 as an artist member with a minimum annual donation of $35 for individual members or $25 for students and seniors. As an artist member, your work will be part of our registry, and will be reviewed by every curator for every show that you select within one year of joining. Your chances of being selected for a show are great, though never guaranteed because of our independent curatorial process. This process ensures the highest-quality independent selection, while also providing crucial support for our exhibition, education, residency and other programs. Your donations are tax-deductible to the full extent of the law. Artist registry materials can now be uploaded to our website after joining, and will soon be available for public viewing. See other member benefits and join online at www.cwow.org.

works accepted | ALL MEDIA AND SIZES

Open to all media and sizes of visual art, including 2-D, 3-D, new media, performance art, etc., that deal with issues and ideas about the theme of democracy.

Artists can upload their submission at www.cwow.org after joining cWOW or send by snail mail. Include resume, up to 10 images uploaded or slides/CD/DVD, an image list (title date media dimensions), artist statement, and SASE if you want the materials returned (otherwise, they are kept in our registry). You can also submit additional materials for the artist registry by indicating which are for the exhibition and which are for the registry only.
